

CREDITS TO CREDENTIALS

La Salle University recognizes the work and time college requires and the challenges students may face along the way. For students who have paused their college journey, La Salle provides support when they are ready to return. Students often only need to complete a few courses to earn an associate degree, putting them on the path to growing their career and reaching their goals.

Through Credits to Credentials (C2C), former students who completed substantial coursework but did not earn a credential are invited to return to complete an associate degree. Eligible students will receive a defined part-time roadmap toward completing requirements and individualized advising along the way.
